Abstract (en)

The sewing machine (1), comprising an upper arm (3) containing the sewing mechanism and a base (2) holding the mechanism for advancing the fabric and forming the stitch loops, has the column (5) supporting the upper arm made with a compartment (6) for storing accessories such as interchangeable pressure feet. The accessories can be held in pivoted containers (8) on horizontal axles that allow them to be tilted forward for access, while a hinged door closes the compartment when not in use. Other storage space can be located in a base extension (14).
