Abstract (en)
The facade fastening system comprises a prefabricated part construction of components joined without means of fastening and consisting of anchoring elements and support elements. A first rail element orientated in a first direction (1) is hooked into the anchoring element, and a second rail orientated in a second direction is hooked into the first rail element. Flat large area elements equipped with mounting elements are hooked into the second rail element, and spacers fixing the flat elements are fitted in the second rail element.
