Abstract (en)

[origin: EP1650952A2] An imaging apparatus records image data and print information specifying specification relating to printing of image data in a recording medium. The print information includes an automatic print file for specifying print content and a print content specifying file which is referred to by the automatic print file and specifies detailed specification of image to be printed. The print content specifying file includes information of image data to be printed, document structure information, and style information relating to layout of the image to be printed. The information of image data to be printed and the style information are defined to be referred to by an external file, in the print content specifying file.
