Abstract (en)

[origin: WO2005018584A1] The invention relates to a composition in the form of a physiologically-acceptable medium containing a fatty phase comprising at least one ester resulting from the reaction of a polyol with a carboxylic acid, having formula (I), wherein: R1, R2 and R3 are radicals which are selected independently from optionally-functionalised alkyl, aryl, aralkyl radicals, and the combinations thereof. The invention also relates to the use of an ester having the aforementioned formula (I) in a cosmetic composition with performance properties, for example, in terms of colour and/or brightness and/or comfort and/or non-migration.
