Abstract (en)

A collecting device for a handed tool includes a connecting portion (10) having at least one cavity (11) defined therein. At least one collecting portion (20) is disposed on the connecting portion (10). The collecting portion (20) includes an apron (21) extending from the connecting portion (10) and surrounding the cavity (11). The apron (21) has an opening (211) defined to correspond to the cavity (11). A buckle (22) is securely mounted on the connecting portion (10) and partially received in the cavity (11). The buckle (22) has a resilient arm (221) extending therefrom and corresponding to the opening (211) of the apron (21). The resilient arm (221) abuts an inner periphery of a connecting hole that is defined in the handed tool.
