Abstract (en)
The container has a lift-up door (4) in the upper part of a lid (3) and two units formed of a buried tank (1) and an upper body (2) above the ground. The two units are encased and overlap above the ground-level on a height limited to form a protective belt (6). The body is located towards the exterior of the container, in a zone of overlapping between the two units, when the upper part of the tank is placed inside the container.
