Abstract (en)

[origin: EP1665959A1] The carrier has carrying straps (41) which pass around arms of a wearer (2) and connected to a seat by an attachment (411) on a base part far away from the wearer. The straps are connected to a rigid dorsal structure by an end of the straps that is at a height greater than that of the attachment. The structure distributes forces due to weight of a baby, on back and haunch of the wearer.
