Abstract (en)

[origin: WO2005055750A2] Garment that dresses at least the pelvis of the human body, fitted with a joining section (37) between its rear and front portion, passing under the groin between the lower limbs, which can be put on without lifting the feet from the floor and closing the belt line (1) at one single point (2). The two tubular sections (13, 14) dressing the lower limbs are extendable and closable in two joining lines (8, 11) which describe an upturned V, with the vertex (12) on the point (2) where the user closes the belt line (1) approximately near the navel, and with the two side lines that run diagonally over the hips and then vertically down to the lower end of the said tubular sections (13, 14).
