Abstract (en)
[origin: US2007007107A1] An arrangement for a base region of an escalator or moving walkway includes an external covering element for being attached in the base region of the escalator or moving walkway. A substructure includes a profile, a support element extending from the profile and a magnet disposed on the support element. The external covering element is detachably mounted to the substructure in a region of the profile and in a region of the magnet.
