Abstract (en)

The table (1) has radial displacement units (6) that radially move battens (3) to modify the perimeter of the table top (2). The displacement units comprise a set of slides (7) that are oriented in the direction of center of the table and subjugated at support units (4) or at a lower side (8) of each of the battens. Each slide cooperates with a bed staple (9) subjugated respectively at the lower side or at the support units. Inner and outer stops (10a, 10b) are provided at the slides for respectively limiting the reduction and increase of the perimeter of the table top.
