Abstract (en)
[origin: WO2005066431A2] The invention relates to a floor panel (1, 2) comprising a carrier plate (3, 4) to which a useful layer (5, 6) provided with a decorative image divided into various sections is applied, said decorative image being protected from wear by abrasionproof particles. The surface of the useful layer (5, 6) has a relief of recesses and raised parts. The recesses comprising certain image sections of the decorative image are surrounded by the raised parts comprising other image sections of the decorative image, said decorative image being coated with a transparent layer of lacquer. According to the invention, the recesses of the relief are produced by a chemical reacting with the lacquer, and the abrasionproof particles are contained in the layer of lacquer.
