Abstract (en)
[origin: EP1707734A1] A first and a second supporting elements (4, 5) are movable away from and close to each other to unfold and draw back a shielding cloth (6). A protection structure (13) operates along at least one side edge (6c) of the cloth (6), which protection structure comprises a pair of movable bars (14) formed with telescopic portions hinged between the first supporting element (4) and a runner (15) movable along the second supporting element (5). The protection structure (13) is movable by mutual approaching of the supporting elements (4, 5) from a first operating condition at which it is parallelly drawn close to and along the side edge (6c) and a second operating condition at which it is disposed parallelly between the supporting elements (4, 5).
