Abstract (en)

[origin: EP1717407A1] The device has a latch slidably or pivotably mounted at a case from an inner side (22) of a closing flange in a manner so as to be pushed back in the locking and unlocking positions, where the latch is engaged in a notch (23) in its locking position. The notch forms a strike plate arranged in the thickness of one of the front (3), upper, rear and subside walls of the case, where the subside wall of the case forms an access door.
