Abstract (en)

[origin: WO2005088546A1] The invention relates to a method for displaying graphic objects in which the graphic objects are arranged in a virtual surface field, the virtual surface field is larger than a display field, a section of the virtual surface field is displayed in the display field, and graphic objects which are arranged outside the displayed section of the virtual surface field are projected onto the edge of the display field. The projected objects are displayed in a displacing manner such that the projected graphic objects (PGO) displayed do not overlap.
