Abstract (en)

[origin: EP1726234A2] The applicator has an applicator body (10) that is provided at an end of a rod (8). The applicator body comprises a plastic material support that is connected to a proximal end of the rod. The body comprises two branches (12, 13) that extend along a longitudinal axis of the support. The branches of the body have an opening between them and define a largest width of the support. The body comprises a row of applicator units (23) comprising applicator parts that extend for half of their length above the opening. Independent claims are also included for the following: (1) a device for packaging and applying a product for make up and care of eyelashes and eyebrows and comprising an applicator for applying a product on eyelashes and eyebrows (2) a method for applying a product on eyelashes and eyebrows.
