Abstract (en)

[origin: FR2884168A1] The press has two plates, where one of the plates (b) supports boards (c) and permits positioning of the boards on the plate (b) by conical, tapered or pyramidal studs (f) braced between them. A zone (s) located in the thickness of the plate (b) is overpressurized, so that the studs fixed at the lower part of the plate (b) remain in place while the upper part of the plate (b) is raised, to disengage the boards and the plate from the press.
