Abstract (en)
Living container comprises a bed arranged within the container having a bed frame with first and second partial frames (1, 2), in which the first partial frame tensions a first partial surface of a lying surface and the second partial frame tensions a second partial surface of the lying surface. The first partial frame rotates about a rotating axis (D) and folds from a lying surface against a first side wall (3a) of the container. The second partial frame does not collapse against the first side wall of the container. Preferred Features: The first and second partial frames are arranged behind each other in the direction of the longitudinal axis of the bed.
