Abstract (en)
[origin: EP1729371A1] The connection has a plug socket (1) with a blind hole shaped recess, where the socket and recess are conically designed so that an outer diameter of the socket and an inner diameter of the recess are synchronously reduced. The socket is slitted in a conical area, where width of slits in a unloaded condition of the socket is constant over an axial length of the slits. A circular safety bead is provided at the front side of the recess. Independent claims are also included for the following : (1) a method for producing a plug socket (2) a plug socket that consists of a safety bead.
