Abstract (en)

[origin: WO2005094947A1] The invention relates to a golf accessory device (1) comprising at least one open-worked structure (2) which delimits a collecting container (3) and is provided with two longitudinal edges (4, 4') remote from each other at a distance greater than a golf ball diameter in such a way that an opening (5) through which a ball is introducible into said container (3) is defined. The inventive device is characterised in that it comprises means (7) for fixing an arm (8) disposed on the end of one of said edges (4, 4') in such a way that said arm (8) substantially vertically extends with respect thereto.
