Abstract (en)
[origin: EP1736425A2] The belt table is taken over a drivable belt roller at one end of the table and back round it and over its table board. The table board is split, bordering the transporting belt (7) on both sides. A table board element (6) is able to turn about a turning axis in the region of the belt roller, taking it out of the plane of the table board. The belt roll can be separated by a coupling in the separating region between the table plate and the table plate element.
