Abstract (en)
The construction has a lower frame, and a floor disposed to the interior of the lower frame. A set of poles is fixed on the lower frame by the lower ends of the poles, and an upper frame in which the poles are fixed by the upper ends of the poles. A ceiling is rested on a horizontal portion (30) of the upper frame, and vertical walls are disposed between the frames. The lower and upper frames are formed of a set of identical sections (11, 26) joined end to end by rectilinear junction parts (12, 24) or square junction parts, where the poles are fixed to the junction parts.
