Abstract (en)
[origin: WO2005105587A1] A package (1) containing an odorant composition, characterised in that the package comprises a first outlet (5) which is initially closed for opening after purchase to allow controlled egress of the composition for use in a laundry process and a further olfactory outlet (7) facilitating release of odorant components from the composition to provide multiple consumers with means for repeated olfactory testing of the composition before purchase but preventing or at least minimising egress of non-volatile components of the composition. In one embodiment, said packaging comprises a olfactory outlet closure (9) positionable between an open position allowing said olfactory testing and a closed position which prevents or at least minimises release of odorant components between testing events.
