Abstract (en)
[origin: WO2005105974A1] The invention relates to a method for production of a dosing unit for detergent or cleaning agents, comprising the steps:
a) preparation of a moulded body with at least one cavity, b) application of a first film material to the moulded body surface through the opening of the cavity, c) deep-drawing of the first film material into the cavity and d) filling of a detergent or cleaning active substance onto the film material in the cavity. The above is suitable for the production of highly-active detergent or cleaning agents, in particular, for the production of pre-dosed combination products with solid and liquid phases.
