Abstract (en)

[origin: EP1741547A2] A membrane press (1) comprises at least one holding frame (2); a membrane (3), at the peripheral region of the holding frame, that can be located on and removed from the holding frame by holding elements (6) having two clamping surfaces (22); and a clamping bolt (21) assigned to the clamping surfaces so that the membrane is located in a free-locking manner. The clamping surfaces are arranged in the manner of a claw. The elements are configured such that the membrane is located on holding elements and removed from the elements without any tool.
