Abstract (en)
[origin: EP1741841A1] In the manhole access section (11), there is at least one attachment point (15). This is connected integrally to the access section and includes an opening located in a U-shaped region. The attachment point is located in the transition region to the shaft dome (12). Two such attachment points are positioned opposite each other, on the inner wall of the access section.
