Abstract (en)
The device has a guide (2) with lateral rails permitting a body of a rear heelpiece to be inserted, slid and locked in a central part (3). A guide protection element is divided into protection elements (12, 16) that protect the guide and a brake (6), respectively. The element (16) receives a base plate of the brake. The element (12) is integrated to a rear part of the guide opposite to the brake. The elements are positioned on a fastener raising platform (17) that cooperates with the elements. The element (16) has hooks to mechanically lock the element (16) with the element (12). An independent claim is also included for a snow sliding board comprising a fastener mounting device.
