Abstract (en)
[origin: WO2005116530A1] An apparatus (10) for treating the air in an environment, in particular in a living or working environment. The present apparatus is in the form of an air conditioner, in particular the type which is mobile on wheels. The apparatus comprises supporting means and suitable means for treating the air in the environment. These means for treating the air in the environment comprise means for emitting a flow of treated air, which supply, in particular, a flow of treated air (S, S) directed sideways and in a substantially horizontal direction.
