Abstract (en)
The slicer (1) has a set of blades (4) for cutting breads arranged parallel with respect to each other in a frame. The frame guides an alternative to and fro movement to the blades. The frame has two units (10) parallel to the blades and other units (11) orthogonal to the blades. A support element (12) connects ends of each blade and slides along the units (11). The units (11) are arranged at the units (10) in a removable manner for adjusting the tension of the blades through the element.
