Abstract (en)

[origin: EP1757537A1] The assembly has aerosol type containers (10), each storing a product and including a valve comprising an actuating rod (11). A dispensing device (20) has a part displaced relative to the containers for actuating the rod to release the product through a dispensing orifice (23), where the device is detachably attached on the containers. The dispensing device tilts the rod around a tilting axis and does not displace the rod along its longitudinal axis, in a use position, and is not in fluidic communication with the rod, in an intermediate position.
