Abstract (en)
The clotheshorse has four support arms (2) slidably and pivotably attached to a central support column (1), where each of the arms has two protective covers (3) for protecting clothes ropes. The covers have guides (5) at each of the two opposite support arms, and a number of gliders (6) are slidably attached to the guides. The gliders are made of plastic, and are connected among each other with a connecting rope. A deflector for the connecting rope is attached to outer end areas of the support arms.
