Abstract (en)

[origin: DE102005041920A1] The connector block (100) includes connections (101,102) for water supply lines and connections (103,104) for water drain lines. The connections are linked to discharge channels (121,122,123,124) which are formed with tube drillings (111,112,113,114) at the coupling side. Auxiliary drillings are also formed from the coupling side on the connection channels (125,126) provided between the water supply lines and water drain lines. An independent claim is included for the sanitary fitting system using the connector block.
