Abstract (en)
The skin cleaner (1), which can be mounted on the end of a holder (2) or on a container holding a liquid or cream substance, consists of a pad (4) with an abrasive surface (5) of an elastically-deformable, non-foam synthetic material covered with a series of cavities no more than 5 mm and preferably 2 mm in size. The cleaning surface can be formed by an elastic membrane and is fitted inside a surrounding rim (3); it can have a projection on the back that the user can press against to vary the cleaning surface shape, which is convex when at rest.
