Abstract (en)
[origin: EP1769702A1] A furniture item has an adjustable seating and positioning part (11), which can be moved relative to a basic frame between an upper position and a lower position, and for which an adjustable support element (17) is provided. The support element in an active position retains the seating part in an upper position, and for adjusting the seat positioning part (11) into a lower position, is transferred into a passive position.
