Abstract (en)

[origin: DE102005050983B3] The manufacturing process for ceramic objects (12) includes using a suction removal device (16) to place the object from the mold (14) while still wet with its top edge (30) on an annular element (26) for hot air to be blown into it through the annular element to dry any droplets of water adhering to it, so that it is sturdy enough to be manipulated.
