Abstract (en)

[origin: EP1790257A1] The invention relates to a decorative object, comprising a transparent, sealed container which is filled with a liquid and in which a plant is situated. The plant can be fully immersed in the liquid, and the interior of the container can be sterile. The container can be slender, for instance take the form of a test tube, and can be accommodated in a support member resting on a surface, for instance a rack in which the container is suspended.
