Abstract (en)
[origin: WO2006031081A1] Provided is a device for removing mascara capable of easily removing mascara applied on eyelashes. The device includes upper and lower clips for pressing eyelashes downward and upward, and as absorbent member and/or a comb installed at the clips to remove the mascara. Therefore, it is possible to prevent chemical mascara-removing material from penetrating into eyeballs to protect the eyeballs, since the absorbent member and the comb are in contact with only the eyelashes.
