Abstract (en)

[origin: EP1800585A2] A coupling device, particularly for fixing the seat to a toilet bowl, comprising a pin (1) which can be fixed to a toilet bowl (2) and is provided with a contoured head (3) which can be accommodated detachably in a seat (11) of a transverse pivot (10) which defines the element for the mutual pivoting of a lid (13) and a ring (14) of the seat, the coupling device further comprising means for the detachable fixing of the transverse pivot to the pin which are constituted by screw means (21), which are accommodated in a threaded seat (20) defined by the transverse pivot (10) and are able to perform a translational motion substantially at right angles to the pin (1), extraction prevention means (30) being further provided to prevent the disengagement of the screw means (21) from the threaded seat (20).
