Abstract (en)
A mattress system comprises a mattress core component (10), a mattress cover (14) removably attachable about the core, and a mattress panel component (28) at least partially detachable from the cover. The mattress cover may be formed from several parts joined together and to the mattress panel component by sliding clasp fasteners. The parts can be washed in a domestic washing machine. Pads (40) can be inserted into a pocket formed between the cover and the panel component. A range of mattress core components, panel components, cover parts and pad components enables users to customise the mattress.
