Abstract (en)

[origin: EP1808104A1] The displayer has a retaining area (1) and a support area (2), where an upper side (6) of the support area includes a U-shaped recess (7). The retaining area and the support area are connected by a connection area (3), such that left and right of the areas (1, 2) adjacent to the connection area form recesses (4, 5). The connection area is inclined against the support area, such that the retaining area is shifted against the support area in a direction perpendicular to a plane of the support area.
