Abstract (en)

[origin: EP1808383A1] The device has a lower plate (2) with transversal openings and fixation units (6), and an intermediate plate (3) with transversal openings superimposed with the former openings when the plates are fixed together. An upper plate (4) has a circular opening (11) and is connected with lateral longitudinal slides (8) of the plate (3) so as to occupy open and close positions. The opening (11) is not superimposed on the transversal openings in the close position to provide a sealing obstacle during gas circulation across the device which is made of plastic material.
