Abstract (en)

[origin: WO2006042693A1] The invention relates to a device for fixing a ski binding to a ski (11), comprising a binding plate (12) which may be fixed to the ski (11), whereby the fixing of the binding plate (12) to the ski (11) is achieved by the interposing of support elements (13, 14). The inner edge (15) of the ski is provided with a first inner support element (14) and the outer edge (16) of the ski (11) is provided with a second outer support element (13), whereby both support elements (13, 14) run essentially parallel to the ski longitudinal direction and the first inner support element (14) is longer than the second outer support element (13).
