Abstract (en)

[origin: EP1813164A1] The device has a last (1) with a last board (2) and connected to a vacuum pump (10) that is connected by an electrical connection to a control unit (12). The last board has a groove placed at its interior, where the groove has a shape parallel to a boundary portion of the last board. The groove has suction orifices placed at regular or irregular intervals, where the suction orifices generate a depression on an edge of an insole placed above the last board.
