Abstract (en)

[origin: EP1813760A1] A blocking mechanism blocks a door from sliding in a first condition when the door can be swiveled and assumes a second condition when it blocks the door from swiveling and lets it slide. Linked to a drive motor (28), a gearing mechanism fits in a first swivel arm (10) so as to allow the drive motor's driving force to switch from a sliding to a swiveling position.
