Abstract (en)

[origin: EP1815891A1] The grasp band (19) has a conical or a trapezoid shape square base in longitudinal direction. The grasp band has a length (L) and a width, where width varies over a substantial part of the length. The width varies over fifty percent of the length of the grasp band. The grasp band has one width (B1) in proximity of its one end (21) and another width (B2) in proximity of another end (23), whereby former width is smaller than later width. Independent claims are also included for the following: (1) method for manufacturing a grasp band involves formation of raw material web (2) grasp for a ball games racket has a framework, which forms a head area for forming an impact area and a grasp section for holding the ball games racket.
