Abstract (en)

[origin: EP1816007A1] The method involves respectively combining print materials (2, 2') and envelopes (3, 3') in a processing device (4) on separate ways to a connection in a rear region. The envelopes are separately provided for the print materials that are supplied in a successive manner, and are supplied to the processing device. The print materials are sequentially printed by a digital printing machine. The envelopes are varied with respect to dimensions and characteristics, and the envelopes are stored at two storage bins (9). An independent claim is also included for a device for executing a method for manufacturing print products.
