Abstract (en)

[origin: WO2006066753A1] The invention relates to a sanitary water outlet fitting (1) which comprises at least one water outlet pipe (3) with a water channel (12) extending therein and having a water outlet device with a water outlet opening. Said water outlet pipe (3) comprises at least one additional separate water channel (13) having at least one additional water outlet device that is axially off-set in relation to the first water outlet opening. Every water channel (12, 13) is linked with the corresponding water outlet device via a cross-duct.
