Abstract (en)
[origin: EP1832436A2] An inner layer forms a base layer (11). An outer layer serving a printing process forms a functional layer (12). The base layer and the functional layer are each produced by cylinder-like molding of a separate, flat bank. Bordering edges (13) of the base layer and bordering edges (14) of the functional layer are not congruent but are staggered towards each other. An independent claim is also included for a method for producing a rubber sleeve for a printing machine.
