Abstract (en)

[origin: EP1834529A1] The method involves applying a fluid additive on a strip (2) e.g. filter tow strip, in an application section by an application device. The conveying of the strip and the application of the additive are interrupted during a production stop, and the additive in the area or in the application device is received from a section of the stopped strip and is further-conveyed after a pre-determined time period of the strip.
