Abstract (en)
[origin: EP1835070A2] A pattern having variable colors can be attached on a soft material of wearing apparels or household cloths. The pattern is constituted of decorative blocks provided on the surface of the cloth or the soft material and a layer of transparent film covering on the decorative blocks. The surface of the transparent film is formed with refractive ripples thereon, so that the decorative blocks represent a visual effect of variable colors by means of refraction when viewed from different angles.
