Abstract (en)
[origin: WO2006063899A1] The invention relates to a cutlery basket (1, 1') for a dishwasher comprising at least one crockery basket into which at least one cutlery basket (1, 1') can be inserted. Said cutlery basket has at least one cutlery basket base (2, 2') or at least one cutlery basket sidewall (3, 3') which is provided with a plurality of passages for washing liquid to pass through. The aim of the invention is to provide a cutlery basket (1, 1') which allows in a simple and efficient manner to substantially eliminate the danger of injury presented by items of cutlery that project upwards, especially items that are arranged with their tips pointing upwards, e.g. forks, steak knives, etc. For this purpose, at least one of the cutlery basket sidewalls (3, 3') that is substantially perpendicular to the cutlery basket base (2, 2') rises above the height of the items of cutlery that are optionally arranged in at least one cutlery basket (1, 1') in a substantially vertically upward-pointing manner.
